Randy Wood sponsors Holidays 4 Heroes

07th June 2010

Randy Wood Ltd is delighted to confirm that they will be launching their annual sponsorship of Holidays 4 Heroes at a celebrity cricket match to be held this Sunday 13th June at The Pavilion cricket ground, Crouch End, London. The match will be played against a 'Celebrity Eleven including stars from the BBC soap Eastenders, such as Cliff Parisi (Minty) and Samantha Janus (Ronnie) already confirmed as attending.

Established in 2009, the Kent based clothing provider has long supported the armed forces and has developed their own range of 'Tour T-shirts' to display their backing of military personnel.

As business founder Stuart Page explained, "I am ex-services myself and I have the utmost respect for everything that the servicemen and women do for this country. Holidays 4 Heroes provides excellent help and support for personnel wounded in frontline action. Supporting them this year was a natural choice for us."

As Chris Lee of Holidays 4 Heroes explained "Last year's match was a terrific success raising hundreds of pounds and now with Randy Wood behind us we hope to push on and gain even more money and support for our cause."
